Paradym Shifting, Actionable Ideas

Inspire students, educators, and administrators to focus on developing human intelligence

WHY WE KEYNOTE

We have to ask questions in today's classroom that can't be googled.

Googleable questions require no critical thinking or problem-solving skills to solve, and if all we do is ask Googleable questions, we will be replaced by Google. We keynote to paint a vision for what learning can look like when students are challenged to find their own problems to solve and take ownership of their learning.

WHAT OUR AUDIENCES THINK

"Travis had every teacher in the room eating out of his hands. His passion shows in everything that he does, and he has the smarts to back it up. I look forward to hearing another one of his presentations."

"Travis is comfortable, funny, and loaded with insight on how mobile technologies can be of value in education - people were buzzing about the ideas as they left. He is a dynamic presenter and I suspect will be a favorite on the education circuit for years to come."
